In 1991, the Democrats controlled Congress. As such, we might expect that Republicans would be more likely to distrust Congress; that is, a Congress that was promoting and passing Democratic policies. After the 1994 elections, Republicans took control of Congress for the first time in four decades.

The Constitution says that Congress fixes its own “compensation.”

Therefore, the only real limits to congressional pay are the President’s veto and fear of voter backlash against a pay increase. Chapter 10, Section 4
